DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Invention I (claims 1-4 and 38) in the reply filed on 12/14/2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that invention II (claims 5 and 39) would not be unduly burdensome. This is not found persuasive because the two inventions are able to support separate patents and are independent. Even though, the inventions are in same class and sub class, there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required. The aspect of invention that would constitute additional burden for the examiner includes two separate proposed auctions each having a reserve price whereas invention I comprises a single proposed auction and at least one proposed non-auction, both without the reserve price feature.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-4 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In particular, it is not clear how the recited steps in the body of the claim achieve the "trading financial interests" as recited in the preamble.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-4 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lawrence (US 5915209) ("Lawrence") in view of BuyTextile.com ("BuyTextile").

Re claims 1-4 and 38: Lawrence teaches a method of trading financial interests, the method comprising: receiving via a computer network terms for a proposed auction in financial interests and associating with said proposed auction a deadline for deciding said proposed auction (abstract, col.1, lines 7-27; col. 3, lines 41-54; col. 7, line 62-col. 8, line 29).

Lawrence does not explicitly teach receiving via a computer network terms for at least one proposed non-auction transaction in at least one of said financial interests; and identifying said proposed non-auction transaction as an entry in said proposed auction. BuyTextile teaches receiving via a computer network terms for at least one proposed non-auction transaction; and identifying said proposed non-auction transaction as an entry in said proposed auction (Page 3 of 4; "Buy it now"). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Lawrence to include this step as taught by BuyTextile. One would have been motivated to do so in order to enable the system to add a fixed-price option to the auction so that the transaction can be concluded faster.
